ROBERT S.M. GEBELHOFF

1031 Park Ave. NW, Washington D.C. 20010
robert.gebelhoff@washpost.com / 224-456-6580

EXPERIENCE

The Washington Post
Assistant editor, In Theory (Sept. 2015 - present)
Assisted in editing, producing and managing a symposium style editorial blog on The Washington Post's website. Occassionally appeared as contributing columnist to blog.

Reporter (May 2015 - Aug. 2015)
Served as a reporter covering health and science during a summer internship. Focused on online reporting, incorporating video, photos and social media into daily posts.

Milwaukee Journal Sentinel
Reporter through the Ray Kenney Business Reporting Internship (January 2015 - May 2015)
Primarily reportied on business news in Milwuakee, but also contributed to general and crime news as needed. Contributed to online interactive coverage of events and multiple front-page stories.

Reporter through the MacBeath Fellowship (May 2014 - Aug. 2014)
Served as a reporter primarily covering education during a summer internship funded by the Faye MacBeath Foundation. Focused on data-oriented stories and published multiple front-page stories.

Milwaukee Business Journal
Reporter (Aug. 2014 - Dec. 2014)
Contributed to the online coverage of business news in Milwaukee as wellas print projects featuring business leaders through the area.

Third Coast Daily
Classical music columnist (Sept. 2013 - May 2014)
Wrote a weekly column on classical music in Milwaukee for Third Coast Daily, a website covering arts and entertainment in the city for the online news source Urban Milwaukee.

The Office of Rep. Sean Duffy
Intern (May 2013- Aug. 2013)
Served as an intern in the congressional office through Marquette's Les Aspin Center for Government. Conducted research; wrote reports on congressional hearings; gave tours of the Capitol.

EDUCATION

Marquette University,
Diederich College of Communication, Class of 2015
GPA: 3.895 Awards/Recognition: Graduated cum laude; served as senior editor for The Marquette Tribune (Aug. 2012 - May 2015). Recognized as the Diederich journalism scholar

SKILLS

Proficient in computer-assisted reporting through data management and query programs such as Excel and Access. Basic web development and coding skills, including HTML and CSS. Proficient with interative graphic programs and mapping software. Proficient with CS design products such as InDesign, Photoshop and Illustrator. Strong copy editing skills and well-versed in AP style.

REFERENCES

Laurie McGinley
Health and science editor for
The Washington Post
mary.mcginley@washpost.com
202-725-1324

Christine Emba
Editor of In Theory
The Washington Post
christine.emba@washpost.com
202-334-4407

Jim Nelson
Business editor of the Milwaukee Journal Sentinel
jnelson@jrn.com
414-224-2168